Senators Victorious in a Rattling Game of Ball Yesterday Afternoon

Back in tenth place. the Senators in that position yesterday after-noon at National park. It was the second game with the St. Louis Browns, and the way they play and are liable at any stage to snatch victory while defeat stares them in the face. The storm which passed over the northern part of the city was a great relief. It cooled the atmosphere very nicely and it came at the right time, for there is no telling how many lives would have been in the balance had it remained as would have been in the balance had it remained as warm as it was at the beginning. The last inning was so exciting that if any cases of heart failure are reported they can be attributed to the high pitch the audience was carried by the possibility of the Browns taking the game.

These who failed to see the game can readily appreciate the situation when they know that, with the score's to 0 in favor of the Senators, the visitors went to the bat for the last time, and three singles and a double were made by the first five batters. Three earned runs had crossed the plate, with Shugart on third base and big floger Connor at the bat. A thorough rocter of the home team fell like a man does trying to catch his breath under water. But oh, how different when the big first baseman hit a bail to Cartwricht, for then it was all over, but the shouting and the expansive lungs of at least 1,000 males sent forth a volume of shouts, and the fellow whose umbrella was turned inside out became so enthusiastic that he threw the damaged rain-protector into the air and followed it up by tessing his hat hito space.

The visitors presented what may consistently be called a German buttery, and there were not a few present from the land of Bismarck. "Wash much do, whise koop," came from the Senators hit for a single, a double, and a triple, but Breitenstein only smiled and pitched good bail all through the game, he doing his share in keeping the score down to four cuts.

"Little old Raid," yelled out an enthusiast as Paul gobbed up a ball back of second base and threw the runner out at first. He fielded with the arcturacy of a Ghasscock. Just now he is a "lim dandy" with the roters, and he deserves to be, as he is playing git-edged bail. He caught a fly ball way out in leit center at a mement when Teboan said" I have it." Faut took it over his hea part of the city was a great relief. It cooled the Cartwright made a circus catch in the last inning which ordinarily would be safe. It was one of these "pep" files, and he ran with the the ball, catching it going at full speed. Abbey played center and Tebeau was in left. One catch of the f-criner saved two or three runs. He got the ball on a dead run, and probably the change was a good one. He also batted well, sending in a run on his three-blagger.

Mercer pitched a good, steady game until the ninth, when he seemed to weaken. He struck three men out. Singart, Connor, and life opponent in the box. Maguire was a little group, he having two passed balls. No doubt he was weak by reason of having his mustache taken off. Not a man attempted to steal a base on him, however, and he had no occasion to demon-strate his throwing prowess.

The home team made an excellent start. After Ward flew out to Miller, Joyce got in a two-bag-ger, which Shugart falled to hold after a long run. He was sent home on Abbey's hit for three bases, which Bowd misjudged, Abbey scoring on Maguire's single. The latter was advanced to second on Tebeau's base on balls and scored on Cartwright's single, Tebeau going to third. Here he was caught by a quick throw of Breit-custeln.

although they have a house the hard then Ward sent one to the vicinity of left center. It was a low fly, and Shugart made a desperate effort to get it. He could not hold it, and before he could recover himself he saw Ward going on to second on a wild rush. "Slide!" yelled Tebeau. There was a cloud of dust such as a like's leak breeze was a cloud of dust such as a like's leak breeze by a fine.

would blow up, and Frank won the bag by a finger half.

Just about this time the runner was very frisky and pranced about second as a two-year-old does at the post. He wanted to steal third and was there once, but Joyce had made a foul. Again he made a dash for bag No. 3. Joyce hit the ball down to Miller. The ball went over to Comor, and Ward was coming home. He came fast. Nearer and nearer he came. The ball had left Connor's hand on a throw to Peliz. Ward was home, winning by a desperate plunge and a long reach. That run virunily won the game, as it was the last the Senators scored.

Ely, that greatest of all shortstops, made the first safe hit in the third, and he got to third on Breitenstein's single, after Peliz flew out to Joyce. Both men were left, as Dowd and Frank went out at first on clever fielding by Joyce and Radford.

Radford.

In the sixth Miller stretched a single into a double by fast running and a Miller slide. Become falled to get any further, as Ward and Carteright took care of Connor and Quinn.

During the seventh liming the receives were on meedles for agoed little bit. Ev had made his Cartwright took care of Connor and Quinn.

During the seventh linning the rooters were on needles for a good little bit. Etv had made his second hit, and a passed ball put him on second. Radiord got under Peitz's fly in elever style, and Breitenstein struck out. Joyce failed to handle Dowd's hit, and Frank went to first on balls. It was a cilical moment, as Shugart is a fair hitter at times. Two balls, and Steambout Peitz yelled out, "You'll walk, sure." But he ran like a deer after he had hit a ball in short left center. So did the men on bases. Abbey also was going at great speed. On he went. A lunge forward and he had the ball, and he squeezed it as hard as he would a cider press during the first fall of appies. The suppressed enthusiasm broke forth, and the ex-leftleider lifted his hat with the grace of a well-paid government clerk just entering acitety.

And now for the ninth. The visitors were as full of fight as a half-licked chicken. Peitz cracked out a single, and a passed ball put him on second. After Cartwright caught Breitenstein's fly Dowd reached second on his hit, and scored a moment later on Frank's single to left. Shugart sent one down at Cartwright and it caronned off the big first baseman's shin and landed at the fence. Dowd secred, Frank reached third, and Shugart was on second. Miller went to the plate having every assurance in his ability to hit Mercer, as he had already did so twice before. He sent one to Radford and went out and Couner at the bat. That same voice of Peits was heard saying, "Goup ngainst it. Royer, he's easy." There was a crack and enother crack and the ball was in Cartwright's hands. Then there was a crack had so they before. He sent one to Radford and went out and Couner at the bat. That same voice of Peits was heard saying, "Goup ngainst it. Royer, he's easy." There was a crack and enother crack and the ball was in Cartwright's hands. Then there was a chase for first. Cartwright won in a driving finish, and the game belonged to the Senators by a narrow margin. The thund

HURDLE RACING A FAILURE

Island Track Not Suited for Events

CONUNDRUM MET HIS DEATH

Pive of the Entries in the Last Race of the Day Went Down and One Broke His Neck, Dying on the Track-Favorites in Hard Luck-Besults and Entries Elsewhere.

It was demonstrated in a most forcible man or yesterday that the Island track is not suited o hurdle racing because of its sharp turns starters, and Conundrum fell at the first jump

Manlove rode his third straight winner when he brought Turco home first in the colt race, Agitation, the favorite, swerving all over the track in the stretch. Somage made all the running, but could do no better than finish third. Keime was an overwheiming favorite for the fourth race and was pullling up from Diavolo with Salisbury a poor third. Diavolo stood a strong drive the entire length of the stretch. The fifth race was for gentlemen riders and turned out a farce, Elphin wa king in winner by twenty-five lengths.

The hurdie race brought the sport to a close and has been already referred to. Summaries:

TESTING THE LAW.

Florida Authorities Try to Determine Their Status to Prize Fighting. TALLAHABBEE, Fla., June 12 - Attorney General W. B. Lamar, representing the sheriff of Duval county, filed in the supreme court to-day the record in the case of N. B. Broward, sheriff, va.

county, filed in the supreme court to-day the record in the case of N. B. Broward, sheriff, va. J. E. T. Bowden and others, composing the Duval Athletic Club of Jacksonville.

It will be remembered that when the Corbett-Mitchell fight was about to take place at Jacksonville Governor Henry I. Mitchell ordered several companies of the state military to that city and placed them under the command of the sheriff, who had instructions to prevent the fight from taking place at all hexards. The club applied to Judge R. M. Call, of the circuit court in and for said county, for a writ of injunction restraining the sheriff from interfering with the proposed exhibition under the auspices of the club.

The injunction was granted, and the officers were powerless to further interfere with the fight; but in order to test the sefficiency of the laws of the state, which was held in question by the declaies of Judge Call, an appeal was taken to the supreme court. Immediately after filing the record in the cause this morning the saturney general made a motion to advance the case for argument. No counsel appeared for the appellees, and under the rules of practice governing the advancement of cases in the supreme court ten days notice is allowed to appellees in which to appear and defend, if they so deairs, the motion for advancement on the decket, and nothing further can be done until that time expires.

The announcement that an effort will be made to bring about the meeting of Corbett and Jackson in Jackson of Jackson in Jackson in Jackson of Jackson in Jackson of Jackson in Jackson of Jackson of Jackson in Jackson of J to suffer another exhibition like that of last Spring.

On the other hand, if the supreme court concurs in the decision of Judge Call, the Governor and officers would be powerless to interfere with prize fighting until the weak points in the present laws are amended. Should this be the case, which is very doubtful, and the proposed like a certainly, the Governor has repeatedly signified his intention of calling the legislature together in extra session to make such amendments as are required.
